An Update on
Tree Plantation Seva

Chinmaya Vibhooti Vision Centre

Kolwan, Mulshi, Pune District

Since May 2017, 658 trees have been sponsored by donors, out of which 588 are located in the Dhyan Vatika sacred grove, 39 in the Swanubhooti Vatika enlightenment park and 31 in other areas of the Vision Centre.

Gratitude to all sponsors!

Dhyan Vatika

Sacred Grove at Chinmaya Vibhooti

Created in 2017 in coordination with Maharashtra Vruksh Samvardhini, Pune

An untouched, virgin sacred grove known locally as 'Devrai', with all its vegetation dedicated to divinity. Hindu culture worships Nature as a "God". Dhyan Vatika, named by Swami Tejomayananda, provides a serene ambience over 2.5 acres of land, full of positive, meditative energy. It conserves plants and animals in its apex ecosystem, absolutely undisturbed by technological advancement and urban development.

We seek the Lord's grace
"Chandra Maa" puja on the full moon day of every month, for the healthy growth of the trees & plants at Chinmaya Vibhooti

Our Inspiration

The trees give, the rivers give, the earth gives, the sun, the moon, the stars give. Why then must we be anxious only to take, to amass, to gather, to hoard?
